THE SECRETARY OF STATE
WASHINGTON

September 4, 1956

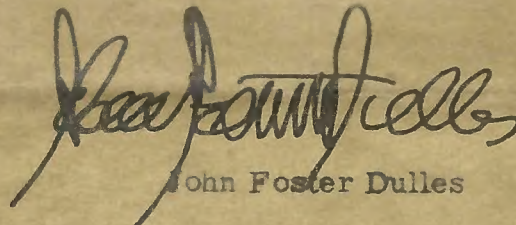

Dear Captain Migell:

I have been advised of the fact that your organization, in whose ranks there are so many distinguished citizens of Massachusetts, will conduct a tour of duty this fall in Belgium and will visit Holland.

I have every confidence that your tour will be an asset in promoting the good relations we enjoy with our allies in Western Europe. As you do that, you will be paying respect to our comrades who fell on the battlefield of Bastogne in defense of principles which we today must continue to struggle to uphold.

Please convey to your membership my sincere wish for a successful and enjoyable tour.

Sincerely yours,

John Foster Dulles

Captain Augustus J. Migell,
Commander, Ancient and Honorable
Artillery Company of Massachusetts,

My Dear Captain McGill, Commanding the Excellent and Honorable

and all dear companions,

I was so very glad to receive your messages, after our meeting in Bastogne, for Christmas
New Year, and now the number of December 9-1956. of the Boston Sunday Globe magazine, with the pictures of Bastogne.
For all these kind attentions, many many thanks
you and it seems we that we immediately became very good old friends.
and surely we will remain so. To you all, dear friends, to you and your dear families. my kindest and best wishes for a happy, very happy 1957.
I hope that this first meeting will be followed by others. I should be so happy to see you again and hope to have this opportunity. In 1954 as you know

I had the great pleasure to make a trip in the States and I came back, really enthusiastic - I. (it was permitted to me, a bachelor, I suppose) I was felt in love with the States, with all I had met the population and the country. You see I very large heart. Surely I should wish to return and maybe, one day it happens and then I should go to do an other conquest: Boston, to which (I am sure) I shall give a special selected place in my heart.
But I am sure that many of yours will come back in 1958 in Belgium to see the World's Fair in Brussels which seems to me must be a success.
We are all waiting for you. Goodbye, dear, very dear friends.
I sent you my kindest regards - smiling. Truly yours.

Anniversary Ode

ODE TO THE ANCIENT AND HONORABLE ARTILLERY COMPANY OF MASSACHUSETTS

JUNE DAY 1957

This is the still hour of soul attune.
This is the time of thoughtful prayers.
First halt on traditional march of June,
Where pausing we honor He Whose cares
Are oft lost midst the other martial affairs.
Behold!

A Company in contemplation.
Stout troop of men hiding pangs of heart;
In brave salute to those whose station
Has been taken; comrades seen depart;
Turning we find new Ancient on that rampart.

To Faneuil men gone: those remaining,
The yearly Ode is worth sustaining.

The lyric, the sermon given here
Marks a festive day with good omen.
Ours is the zenith of feeling fear;
'bove us now hangs the cold steel weapon.
Take heart! 'Tis a sword that suffers to the pen.

For centuries past the sages have said
That the pen shall e'er conquer the sword.
Abundant lessons in life had led
Philosophers of yore wisely to'ard
Disbelief in steel, wise faith in the word.

Faltering lines by an Ancient chosen
Have merit, spite their struggling meter,
For thus the Commonwealth listening then
Knows in our band from rank to leader
We heed Truth, esteem the Word, take our seat here.

There is little that this Ode doth tell;
But a Maxim there can hold its spell.

The sword may kill, but the quill create.
One to destruction; the other to life.
Abiders by steel will know their fate —
That blades in turn shall cause unholy strife,
While penned words still — ever! — rule the lowly knife.

From Concord bridge to Guadacanal,
From Lexington Green to Normandy,
The holy Crusade of right can and shall
By might point lessons for man to see:
Remember!

A Declaration was the reason-to-be.

High goes the wall; a nation's defense.
Blessed the day when that is past tense.

Boston, city of the first journal.
The fount of literary giants great.
Home of poets, of pulpits eternal.
First Constitution born in this state:
And reverence for words still ne'er here abate.

Nearly three hundred years and twenty
Our ancestry: and each June we find
An Ode read to this old Company:
A testimony to faith and mind,
And, imperfect, yet bodes well for all mankind.

Mayflower II

Soon to arrive at the Plimouth Plantation on the Eel River near Plymouth is the replica of the original ship shown on the cover of our menu as she left England.

Project Mayflower, Ltd., in March of 1955, informed Plimouth Plantation of their intention to build Mayflower II in England and sail it to America and present it to Plimouth Plantation for the people of this country as an expression of good will and friendship between our two countries.

For four years William A. Baker, naval architect, worked on plans for the reconstruction of the Mayflower II and he went to England to supervise its construction. She was built at Upham's Yard, in Brixham, Devon, England.

The original idea seems to have been thought up by an Englishman by the name of Charlton, a press officer for Field Marshal Montgomery during WW II.

At the time of this writing the little Mayflower II is about half way across the Atlantic and should arrive sometime in June.

We are indebted to Brig. E. Foster Hall, MC, of the Honourable Artillery Company of London for the excellent photograph that shows the ship leaving England for America.
